

Thomson Reuters Compliance Learning

Bespoke Course Creation

Thomson Reuters Compliance Learning provides organizations with an extensive range of engaging and interactive 'ready-to-go' online training courses. However, if you and your organization require a more bespoke approach, our new suite of solutions can help you develop a truly unique training program for your employees.

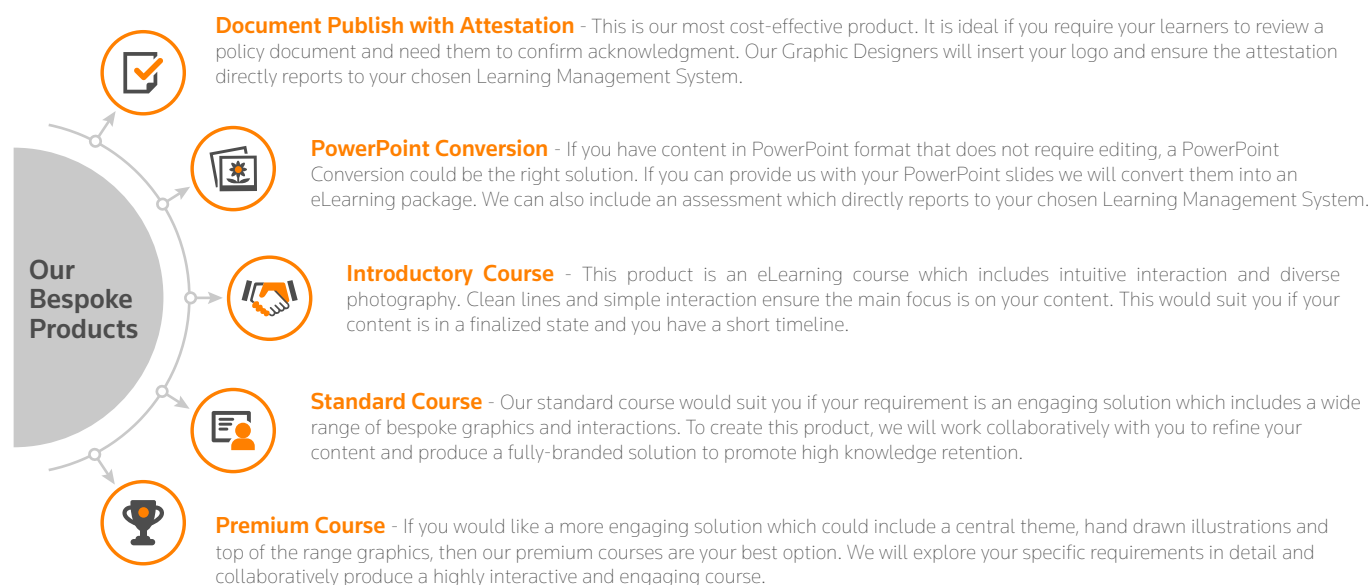

When it comes to training your staff, we understand that one size does not necessarily fit all. Not only are learners becoming more demanding, regulators are also expecting a more comprehensive and relevant approach to compliance education.

Through extensive market research and lending a careful ear to our clients, we have created a dynamic product range which facilitates knowledge retention, enhances awareness and supports behavioral change.

We offer a suite of bespoke course creation solutions that cater to a range of timelines, budgets and requirements. You'll work directly with our Thomson Reuters design specialists to build your own tailored, contemporary and versatile training courses that integrate seamlessly into your overall employee training program.

We also offer a series of add-ons which can be combined to make each eLearning product truly reflective of your organization's needs

Our bespoke offering can include any of the below products:

Compliance Learning Bespoke Add-Ons

Our introductory, standard and premium bespoke courses can be enhanced using a combination of additional services.

These include:

- Translation: Translation into specified languages, language profiler.
- Content: Content mining, instructional design services.
- Media: Video, audio, role/region stranding, preassessment, responsive design.
- Accessibility: Accessible courses, supporting PDFs, PDF versions of course screens.
- Technical Support: Technical support for integration, multi-browser testing, other authoring tools.

Our Production Process

Once your requirements are defined and the project has started, your assigned Project Manager will contact you to reaffirm your requirements and devise a project plan, with clear timelines and review periods.

Our production team, which is comprised of experienced Instructional Designers, Graphic Designers, Quality Analysts and Technical Developers will then provide you with the necessary deliverables to review and sign off.

When you are happy with your bespoke product, and have provided official sign off, we can begin the roll-out phase to your organization.

For more information about our bespoke products, contact your Account Manager, or click here to request a call from one of our specialists.

